“ Connie was meant to be a friend. We met at Eastwood Mall when I had a display of baby goats out there. For a week she visited my booth several times a day and we traded phone numbers. As humans do we never contacted each other. Then about six months later I ran into her in Alabaster, again we traded numbers and again we did not contact each other. Then a few months later she answered an ad I had for baby goats and our friendship was sealed. We have both seen each other thru some hard times and good times. I loved her like a sister.
