“ Please accept my sincere sympathy upon Corrine's death. I grew up with Corrine in Shelby, and knew her and her family well, and thus share in your great loss. I know she has left each of you with countless faithful and undying memories that will comfort your weary heart in your time of sorrow. Those precious memories will always help to warm your heart on a cold winter day, or cool you in summer like a welcome breeze. Those memories will always flow like a fresh mountain stream, fed by unfailing springsk, whose cool, clear, sparking waters leap from rock to rock, refreshing the third, the weary, the heavy-laden. My God bless each and every one of you. "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." Psalms 30:5
