“ Valerie,

I worked shoulder to shoulder with Greg in the early days of the Birmingham office. He was someone I wanted on my team because of his level head and commitment to putting out a good product. As the business grew I wasn't around as much but when I came to visit the Birmingham office, I made it a point to catch up with him. I remember his smile. He couldn't hide it. It was genuine and full of heart. He was good people.

My thoughts are with you

Glenn

“ My friend Greg what can i say, we grew very close over the last 9 years, we would talk about any and everything, Greg voice was the first voice I heard at work every morning hollering LB, LB where u at buddy and I will be honest, I don't like to talk much early in the morning but Greg didn't care he was gonna have a conversation no matter what, and when he said "hey, hey like uh say" I knew I was in for a deep long conversation. The first time Greg and I went fishing we went to Lay Lake, and we were supposed to be fishing for crappie and Greg swore up and down he knew Lay Lake like the back of his hand, but somehow all we caught was bass, and if you knew Greg, you know he loved bass fishing, I was trying to catch crappie and Greg is over there trying out different rigs and baits for bass, I think he set me up for a bass fishing trip, and I ended up catching the biggest bass and not one single crappie, but I will cherish that memory for life. I could go on and on about Greg, I will truly miss him, To Val, and family, I pray that God continues to comfort and strengthen you during this difficult time.

“ Greg was one of the most generous and caring people that I know, he would help you in anyway that he could and he always had a pleasant attitude and smile on his face. I had the pleasure of working with and knowing and becoming friends with Greg for 8 or 9 years. RIP my buddy. Family, continue to lean and depend on God.

“Hey, it’s like this...” Greg was one heck of a coworker and friend. Greg was willing to lend a helping hand in any fashion. Just recently, maybe 6 weeks ago, Greg and Chase were trying to figure out what was wrong with my truck. Greg went home that weekend, read different blogs and discovered what he thought was the solution. He was right, a faulty valve cover. Once Greg had an issue presented to him, he worked his hardest to find a solution. Greg will surely be missed around the office.

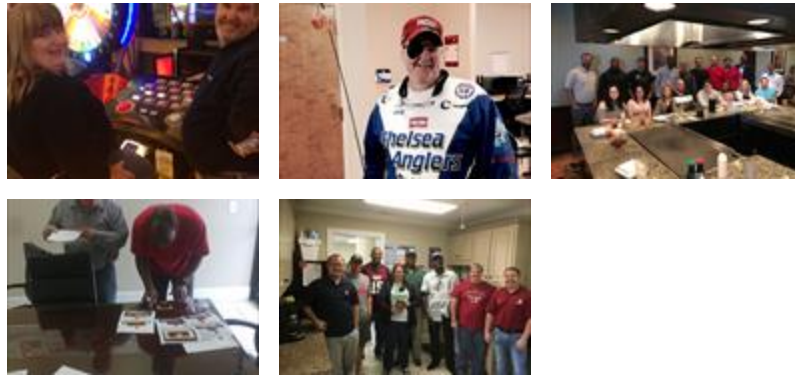

He loved cheering on the Tide. He loved his coffee, and I mean ALL DAY. His bass fishing coffee mug was never empty. He loved to eat some good food to. I’m telling you one thing, nobody could finish their plate faster than Greg Joiner...I tried on several occasions and site visits. He loved talking fishing with anyone willing to listen, especially with his buddy LB. He knew his stuff to. The Bassmasters Elite Series and other tournaments were playing on his iPhone every day it seemed. He enjoyed talking about how proud he was of Randy’s fishing team and loved serving as a captain. They’ve had one good role model. Come to think of it, I think he had more fishing stuff at his desk than work 😊.

Greg was a character. One year for Halloween, he came to work as a one-eyed fisherman. I remember sitting at my desk and over my shoulder, onto my screen, a slimy-fake eyeball stuck to my monitor. He had so much fun cutting up. When it was time to crank down and tighten up, the man was a work horse.

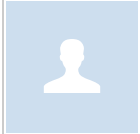

He was so proud the day he became a grandparent. He walked around showing everyone in our office baby pictures. He really loved his kids and grandkids. Greg was a “party animal” to. He loved going to concerts with his best friend, his wife. I sure hope the house the Lord has provided for Greg includes a rod n reel, an endless hot cup of coffee and the Eagles greatest hits playing non-stop.

Our Power Grid Engineering family will miss our friend. It’s a void that can't be filled, but we will do our best to honor Greg.

“ Integrity and honesty are hard to find in people but Greg was truly someone you could trust and he was a man of his word. I feel fortunate to have known Greg over the last 8 years, to hear his stories, to see his passion for fishing and how much he loved spending time with his family and the joy that they brought him. The Joy and the laughter that he brought to me will be missed but cherished forever.
