“ I did not know Mrs. Lee but I went to school with Lanice and Howard & Patti Brasher (WHO probably do not remember me). It is always sad to know that a love one, especially a sister, is no longer with us. God has blessed us with His Word which assures us that we will see that loved one someday in Glory when we see our Lord Jesus Christ. My best and prayers to each of you. Gwen

“ Losing a sister - painful beyond imagination, yet, by her passing there is this moment of collective gratitude for her life, when you honor her uniqueness, the very qualities that made her who she was and her influence on your life. May that joy stay with you, and know she probably feels for you, for your sadness. I believe she's ok now. You just have to remember to be grateful for her life and not cry at her passing but rejoice in her living. I'm so sorry.

“ Please accept my genuine sympathy on the death of Mary Nell, whom I first met as a small boy in Shelby and have maintained a kind memory of ever since, whether she was living in her small home there in Brasherville, or in Columbus, GA, or overseas with her husband, Leslie, nobly serving our nation with honor, and protecting our precious freedoms--which we are sadly and unfortunately losing today under the hideous Anti-Christ Barack Hussein Obama--by serving with distinction in America's armed forces. May God bless all of you!
