“ Dear Hylott and Nancy, I was sorry to hear of your mother's death. It seems like only yesterday, instead of 60 years ago, that I spent the night there. It was cold and Ophelia could not find any matches, and said: "I'll bet there's not a match on this hill." I'm sure you found no match in her loving goodness, enduring patience and infinite affection, which are yours to cherish forever within the sacred and inviolable citadel of your own heart and soul--with undying memories which are unassailable and impregnable, invincible and eternal, endless and indestructible.
