“ As children, my sister and I spent a great deal of time at Aunt Ozelle’s house. At Uncle Lee’s funeral, she shared a story I had never heard before—about when I was three or four years old. My father’s brother had just passed, and we were staying with her for a few days. One night, we sat outside together on a blanket, looking up at the stars.

When a meteor streaked across the sky, I told her it was my uncle flying by to say goodbye.

Now, I imagine her the same way—flying by, on her way to see Uncle Lee, my mother and all the others she loved who went before her.
