“ Sammy I am so sorry for your loss. You and the family are in our prayers. To think 4 months ago I spent several days with you and Shannon, getting to know you better and you both supported me with the loss of my grandma, your aunt. I could see then that Shannon was a special person for not only supporting you but me as well. I enjoyed her wonderful spirit and getting to talk with her. She will truly be missed by many and especially by you Sammy as I seen how you truly love her. With my hugs and prayers for you Sammy. We love you, Love, Tamara, Leon, Victor and Mary

“ Shannon was my Childrens first bus driver last school year. I have a child that is a little different and has a diagnosis of autism spectrum disorder. He is what I would consider the middle of the spectrum. He does some things for his age that makes your head turn, like he jumps while flapping his hands and humming while he’s excited about something. Well, Shannon noticed this as me and him were waiting at the bus stop for his twin sister to be dropped off at our house. This was our first school year at our new home. Anyway, there were some children pointing and yelling out the window at my son while laughing. Ms. Shannon handled this situation with perfection. No retaliation from the kids yelling, no remembrance by my son. She was the sweetest lady to all her kids on the bus and we will always remember her as helping ease the transition for our kids from 2nd to 3rd grade at a new school district. She is irreplaceable and was loved by so many in our community. It’s going to be a sad first day of school for the kids riding 18-05. It’s also worth mentioning she was an extremely safe driver and kept her bus clean. Fly high Ms. Shannon! We will see you again someday! It’s just see ya later, not bye forever.

Love,
Phillip, Erica, Phil, & Erin Genry
